ABSTRACT

The purpose of this study was to determine and analyze the characteristics of SKMHT in the context of distributing People's Business Credit and legal protection for creditors in the event that the debtor receiving the people's business credit defaults. This research is a normative juridical research, using a statutory approach and a conceptual approach. Based on the discussion, it can be concluded: first, the characteristics of the power of attorney imposing mortgage rights (SKMHT) as a form of power of attorney agreement is one of the facilities that have a legal basis in realizing the smooth implementation of the credit agreement of the parties, it can be concluded that a credit agreement bound with the mortgage must be carried out Deed of Granting Mortgage (APHT) and registered at the Office of the National Land Agency. Second, the legal protection that can be carried out by creditors in dealing with debtors who receive credit for people's business defaults is through a non-litigation process, and through a litigation process.
