ABSTRACT

This Practical Work Report is obtained from the work of the internship program carried out by students in observing and identifying the economic empowerment of the Putri Keong community group through the application of Business Model Canvas (BMC). The economic empowerment of the Putri Keong Community Group (POKMAS) through the application of the BMC aims to increase the group's capacity to manage the business in a structured and sustainable manner. This approach helps Pokmas members understand important elements in business, such as value proposition, customer segments, and revenue streams, so that they can create strategies that are relevant to market needs. Although POKMAS faces challenges such as limited understanding of BMC, narrow market access, and limited resources, the program offers solutions in the form of intensive training, ongoing mentoring, and strengthening partnership networks. With the implementation of BMC, Pokmas Putri Keong is expected to improve its competitiveness, expand its business reach, and contribute to the welfare of the local community.
